IN AYA summer

by Michael McCallen

A couple of years ago, it made sense for many people to visit AYA summer camps, which were located in several different states. The programs offered a wide range of activities, and many people, including children, enjoyed participating in them. However, due to the COVID-19 pandemic, these camps have been closed, and it is unclear when they will reopen.

Another way to travel

by Michael McCallen

In today's world, there are many ways to travel to different places. Some people prefer to take flights or drive to their destinations, while others enjoy taking public transportation or walking. Regardless of the mode of transportation, it is important to be prepared and aware of any potential challenges or obstacles that may arise during the journey.

"Rioters" open Moca city

by Michael McCallen

The opening of Moca City has been met with excitement by many people. However, there have been some concerns about the impact of the opening on the surrounding area. Some residents have expressed concerns about noise and traffic, while others have praised the new facilities.

Berlin soldier found guilty

A general court martial has convicted a soldier of several charges, including murder and desertion. The soldier was found guilty of desertion and faced a sentence of up to 20 years in prison. The case has been closely followed by media and the public, and it has raised concerns about the justice system's effectiveness in handling military crimes.

A special dedication will be given by the Berlin Brigade to those who served in Germany, including those who died during their service. The dedication will take place on July 4th, and it will be a moment of reflection and remembrance for those who have served in the armed forces.

"The Black Windmill"

Movies with Mike

The Black Windmill isn't a black King Fu movie. Actually, it's a pretty good thriller about a British agent whose car is kidnapped. The agent is supposed to intercept an important shipment for the British. When he realizes the car has been switched, he tracks down the real agent who is supposed to carry out the assignment.

Trevor and the Tomb is the story of Trevor's latest adventure for the road. After digging through searching for clues, trying to piece together the puzzle, the agent makes a discovery that could be the key to the mystery.

Trevor and the Tomb is the story of a man who is supposed to carry out the assignment. After digging through searching for clues, trying to piece together the puzzle, the agent makes a discovery that could be the key to the mystery.

The Black Windmill is back again, and it's even better this time. There aren't many people around, who haven't seen this silly adventure of a couple of days in the Korean War. If you've seen it before and it's still as good as the first time, then you'll enjoy it again. For 15 cents, it's better than a Free Fs handybag.

Cry of the Living Dead — When they opened the tomb, the living dead were found. One day a dog got into a hole in the ground and it happened to a sailor and then, and then, and then. For 40 cents you can get a good hour or two of that sort of thing.

"The Black Windmill"

Movie with Mike

The Black Windmill isn’t a black and white movie. Actually, it’s a pretty good thriller about a British agent whose son is kidnapped. The agent is supposed to intercept an enemy shipment for Northern Ireland. When the retrieval turns out to be the same site that’s supposed to pay its former for the gun, the agent becomes suspect number one in the kidnapping.

WHAT’S IN IT AGAIN, I SAY ANYMORE?

There aren’t any people around who haven’t seen this noisy adventure of Army doctors in the Korean War. If you’ve seen it before, see it again. For 79 cents, it’s better than an IRS margarita.

Cry the Living Dead — When they opened her book she looked like new instead of 200 years dead. The next day the dog gets its throat torn out and then it happens to a sailor and then, on and on. For 60 cents you can get a good hour and a half’s worth of dead.

Fredric and the Beast is the story of two words detectives. After digging through garbage for two years to get some evidence on a guy, they learn that there is a monster that can accidentally get the guy he’s supposed to protect! This one’s worth every penny of the dollar admission.

The Man — After being in space for 20 years the crew is getting a little strange ("mini-hippier, betterhead"). Their job is to destroy planets that might be dangerous to following societies. This interesting thriller strikes the imagination. Starting three men from Mars to work on the go. But nevertheless, you couldn’t tell a difference of the planet with the performance they gave. Not only do they specialize in east-coast cool music and the Texas sound as Mex-Ye, but they play rock and soul that will keep you on your feet. The group came through proving there is more to Latino music and culture than just Cigga Deenas and Tacos. Also in the Group are Mike Flores, Enrique Mendoza, and David Duran from Freddo, Jesse Luna and Tom Gonzales from Mendoza, California, Mingo Cervantes of Bakersfield, California, Marvel Palafox, C.D. Juarez, Chihuahua; Mike Hernandez from Los Angeles, New Mexico, and on their European trip this year Dolores Mejia from Phoenix, Arizona.

A barrack’s rat can invade your quarters

by Kathy Thoreng

We’re all heard the term “barrack’s rat,” usually meaning someone who stays in the barracks and never leaves, even though he’s free to go. Well, there’s another kind of barrack’s rat, too, about which you will be especially interested. This barrack’s rat will accompany you down the road to the end of the world, and maybe take leave with you. He will also tip you off if you drop your shoes in the snow.

A great con man and hustler, P. T. Barnum, once said, “There’s a better kind of business.” Taking the philosophy of Barnum’s and applying it to the crime prevention methods of the military police, your writer has developed the technique of the barrack’s rat. This technique has been tested thoroughly in the field and has received the approval of the Provost Marshal’s Office (PMO) and the Provost Marshal General (PMG).

Barrack’s rats are most common in barracks and other quarters where there is a lot of activity and movement. They are also common in areas where there is a lot of food and water available. The rats are attracted to these areas because they provide an easy source of food and water. They are also attracted to areas that are not well lit, such as basements and garages. The rats are attracted to these areas because they provide a sheltered environment.

A barrack’s rat can invade your quarters

by Kathy Thornberg

In my government quarters aren’t immune to rodents. A lot of people think ‘just the opposite, and don’t take the necessary crime prevention steps. Both situations are real and true. Their personal property is not safeguarded. During May and June, a number of housebreakings were reported by American Forces Puerto to the Pro-\n
The classic maximization, “it can’t happen to me,” too often occurs when returning home or awakening and finding that a burglar has been there.

This happened to a member of Special Troops June 1 when “...person unknown concealed the above quarters, which were unoccupied, and removed twenty-five (25) dollars in US currency; one (1) twenty dollar bill, social security number unknown, from victim’s wallet; one (1) dolar bill, social security number unknown, from victim’s wallet; one (1) calculation, social security number, valued at approximately $600 was removed.

In a case reported June 1, “...person unknown pocketed money in the above quarters by removing the above money from an unoccupied wallet and removing one (1) movie camera, valued at $100, and one (1) 25 mm camera with a $150 lens, valued at $100, were removed on a desk and in the room being used.”

If you prize your property there’s a threat to your personal safety. In reality, crime prevention measures are nothing more than thirty common sense rules. After all, if the chance is in plain sight; change the risk is not far away.

A door knocked—minus $1500

by PPC Norm Betha

As I remember back in Boston, the building employees would insulate the exterior doors and windows, to keep the heat in and the cold out. If you went outside to exercise, you could see your breath. It was a cold day, and I was wearing my winter coat.

I decided to take a walk around the building to enjoy the fresh air and get some exercise. As I walked, I noticed a door in the basement area.

I opened the door and stepped inside. It was dark and quiet. There were no lights on, and the place seemed abandoned.

I started to walk down a hallway, but I soon realized that I was lost. I couldn’t find my way back out. I tried turning around, but I couldn’t see any way out. It was pitch black, and I couldn’t hear anyone.

I started to feel scared and alone. I didn’t know what to do. I couldn’t call anyone for help because I didn’t have a phone. I couldn’t call the police because I didn’t know where I was.

I started to walk down the hallway, hoping that I would find my way out. But it just got darker and colder. I couldn’t see anything.

I started to feel more and more scared. I didn’t know what to do. I was alone, and I didn’t have anyone to help me.

I started to walk back down the hallway, hoping that I would find my way out. But it just got darker and colder. I couldn’t see anything.

G-A Womens Club host picnic

By Richard McCallum

Last Friday the German-American Women's Club held a picnic at Rice Range for members of the Monarch Day Workshops. The picnic has been an annual affair for the club.

The Monarch workshops are institutions that were originally founded by the German Women in the state for the moral and physically handicapped over the age of 16. According to Mrs. Marianne Kraft, American chairman of the Zurich branch of the club, the Monarch workshops were founded in 1901. "We wish to save rooms in a house given to us by a Germanic woman," Kraft said. "At first we only had four people."

The Monarch workshops fill a gap in the Berlin welfare program in so an attempt to help the members of handicapped populace up to the age of 16. "Since the handicapped people arrive up to the age of 16, we must have the institute to make room for the younger people," Kraft continued. "Often, the parents of the handicapped people used to work during the day and the handicapped must be left at home. Now there is the Monarch for them."

After a while, the club itself found itself in need of financial help. The Berlin Senate stepped in to help Brussels the club. Eventually, the Senate took over the responsibilities for the workshops and paid the Monarch workshops have grown to include

In addition to the annual picnic, the welfare center of the German-American Women's Club has grown much.

The welfare shops are operated by 318 excluded marks per month which is given from the club. The 30 of marks the club has a Christmas and Easter Party for the handicapped and the clerks. The club also takes care of 31 children from the city who have been taken out on their holidays, buying them clothes, and having parties (needed for school) repaired, and occasionally giving them

Bank has one line

In order to reduce waiting time, the American Express has initiated a single or "on-the-spot" system which is being used at several other offices with excellent results. With the single line system, the first client at the head of the line will be the tellers window as the previous client leaves. Each customer will have their individual attention while making their transactions. This will be extremely business.

There is a desk which can be used to fill out the different forms and forms on the desk while in line and before reaching the tellers window. By having the necessary forms completed prior to reaching the window, each customer can be processed much more rapidly, thus reducing waiting time for all.

Armitage: most honors in 1

by Hon. Colby

A Berlin Brigade soldier has graduated from the 7th Army BOC Academy at that post, where she earned more honors than anyone else has taken in the past few years.

Sgt. Maurice A. Armitage, of Headquarters Company, 48th Bn, 6th Inf, graduated in the top five of his class in the academy and received the "Distinguished Graduate Award," the "George B. Patton Award," and the "General Douglas MacArthur Award."

"The Distinguished Graduate Award is given to the highest academically standing student in the academy. The individual fails out at the academy.

The "General George B. Patton Award is given to the outstanding leadership of a student attending the academy."
